DETAILED ACTION

The applicant claims an article of clothing including a complex magnetic therapy unit. The specification however only sets forth an exemplary embodiment of the cmu page 11, lines 14-17. therefore the examiner is taking any magnetic therapy unit to be a cmu.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Grisoni et al (6,267,719). Grisoni et al teaches a magnetic insole with a complex magnetic pattern.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Zablotzky et al (5,738,624) figure 1 shows the article of clothing and figure 2 shows the magnetic unit.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Bakst (5,707,333).
